Hill, quietly passed away at an early hour Tuesday morning, leaving besides a grief stricken husband, two little children, a boy and a girl, to suffer the loss of earth's best friend.

Mrs. Smith was a peculiarly bright and attractive girl and when in April, 1888, she was united in marriage to the man of her choice, she was as beautiful and fair a bride as we ever looked upon. The picture of health and happiness, she bid tice. Come early and avoid the rush, fair to live to a fipe old age, but death marked her for his victim in a few years and she has never since known a well day. In 1891, after the birth of her litsanctified in my section of the country the girl, Annie, and while she was living are fair samples of the thing, I must be at Alleghany Springs, Va., she was baptized and received into the Episcopal church, of which her husband was a member. She held her little girl in har arms and she also was baptized. It was the firm confidence in the promises of her Maker which sustained her in her long illness and made her patient in suffering and enabled her to say at all times, "He doeth all things well." Though racked with pain, no murmur escaped her lips. She was devoted to her husband and children and no wife in return. Her children idolized her and always referred to her as "my pretty bought a large bunch of lambs at 4c and mother." SCHEME TO LOWER WAGES.

The following is the suggestive heading of an article in The Sun of Lexington, Ky.:

TO LOWER WAGES.

Without Strikes and Lockouts. Depreciate the Money With Which They Are Paid, and the Result Is Obtained.

The Journal has always stood for sound money and contended that the result of the discussion would be the triumph of that doctrine. It did not do this in the spirit of prophecy, but because it was convinced that the good sense of the people could bring them to on the free silver side, but when one comes to talk to the people at large, when the question is presented to them, there is but one result possible. -Milwaukee Journal.

Must Consider the German Vote. It may be in this crisis that the Germans will play a specially important role. In the east they are altogether sound upon the silver question, and in the west the preponderance of German sentiment is sound. If the conventions perceive that they will have to reckon with the German vote, the influence of that vote will not be lost. - New Yorker

Staats-Zeitung.

GERMAN-AMERICANS

THEY ARE ALMOST UNANIMOUS FOR SOUND MONEY.

Ready to Break Party Ties to Vote Against Free Coinage-They Form a Large Percentage of the Voters of This Country.

Mr. Gustav H. Schwab is president of the German society of New York city and is therefore in touch with Germans and German-Americans in this country. Being also a prominent bus iness man, he is familiar with the views of Germans on the financial question. In an interview on May 14 he said:

I am convinced from my knowledge of my German-American fellow citizens and their ways of thinking that the vast majority of them in the coming political contest will entirely disregard party ties and will vote for that party which declares for the maintenance, beyoud a possibility of doubt, of the gold standard of value, and that they will not give their suffrage to any candidate who may be suspected of a leaning toward free silver coinage or toward any compromise with the silver people.

They consider that the paramount question before the country at present is the integrity of our monetary system, and their votes will go to that party which they believe will uphold the country's financial honor, regardless of what their views may be on other political questions. Previous experience has shown that German voters on questions relating to or affecting the standard of value have always stood for common honesty, and that they have uniformly opposed all forms of financial heresy.

When, 20 years ago, the paper money inflation question was agitated in Missouri, the Germans of that state were arrayed on the side of sound money. The Germans of Illinois are on record as always having been on the right side of the money question, and as never having been led astray by cheap money propaganda at any time. A German business man, cashier of a large bank in Chicago, who has a wide acquaintance with the small bankers and merchants throughout the west, tells me that he has had occasion to hear expressions from his German countrymen for years past on the question of a monetary standard, and that he has never yet found one who was not in favor of the gold standard and opposed to the free coinage of silver.

His opinion is that the German citizens of Illinois are unanimously opposed to any impairment of the present gold standard.

It is a fact, universally known, that the sound money victory in Ohio in the gubernatorial campaign of 1875, in which Rutherford B. Hayes ran on a Republican hard money platform against William Allen on a Democratic paper money inflation platform, was due to the firm stand taken by the Gerturned the scale in the election in favor of honest money. This fact was conceded at the time by the Republican press of the state, and the Democratic candidate voiced the sentiments of his party lacerated feelings after the election by those of the silverites. exclaiming, "The Dutch are d-d unreliable." The German voters are certainly not to be relied upon when they are asked to prostitute the country's financial honor at their party's bidding. In the state of Wisconsin the Germans have taken the same united stand in favor of sound money, and the same may be said of Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota. The entire German newspaper press in been in the past, and can be depended tenance of the present standard of value and for the party that represents this principle, regardless of previous party affiliations. Several important German Democratic papers in the western states quantity of goods that it does now. have already threatened to bolt their How would that help us, the 70,000, ticket if a free silver plank should be 000 American consumers?" adopted. As an indication of the general sentiment of the German press I and oldest German newspaper in the south, The Demokrat of Louisville, in though always Democratic up to that time, this paper bolted the Democratic free silver candidate and urged the election of the Republican sound money candidate for governor.

The importance of the German vote will be apparent when the ramerical strength of the German-American population in the pivotal states is considered. The returns of the census of 1890 show that the state of New York then contained 972,603 German-Americans, Ohio 541, 407, Illinois 690, 588, Pennsylvania 472,428, Michigan 276,258, Wisconsin 551,884, Minnesota 244,634, Iowa 269,603 and Missouri 297,095.

Whatever may be the decision of the national conventions on the money question, this issue will be fairly, squarely and most thoroughly placed before the German voter in the course of the campaign, and as to the nature of his response I do not entertain any doubt.

The Tail Too Small to Wag the Dog. The total population of the silver mining communities, including all those who are directly or indirectly dependent no other conclusion. The politicians may on silver money for a living, cannot exmanipulate and make a great showing ceed 700,000. Why should the interests of the 70,000,000 people of the United States be sacrificed to the supposed interests of this small fraction of their number? Isn't it a pretty insignificant tail to wag such a stupendous dog?-St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Willing to Correct Mistakes.

About the only argument the free silver papers offer in advocating the issuance of flat money is that Secretary Carlisle and The Courier-Journal have changed their views on the money question. To their credit, be it said, The Courier-Journal and Secretary Carlisle argue the question. -Lexington (Ky.) The Democratic Situation.

If the faculty of seeing facts and the ability to reason upon them have not departed from the free silver Democrats, they will not attempt to commit the national convention to their theory.

The facts of the political situation briefly are:

First.-That the Democratic party has been defeated in every presidential election since the war when it leaned toward financial unsoundness and has been successful in every contest in which it stood for honest money.

Second. -That it cannot carry a single northern state or one-half the border states for free silver and consequently would be beaten disastrously in the election upon that issue.

Third. -That it cannot hope to carry the house of representatives upon that issue. The majority against free coinage has increased from 18 in the Fifty-second congress to 125 in the present house. There are no signs of gains for silver anywhere this year.

Fourth. -Being unable to elect either a president or a house upon this issue, do its supporters hope to throw the election of a president into the house? In that case the choice of the Republican candidate is absolutely certain.

Conceding that the free silver Democrats will be able to write their idea into the platform, what can it profit them? What are conventions for if not to improve the conditions of success or to put the party in the way of a triumph in the near future? Is the free silver fad all there is of Democracy for our friends at the west and south? "Only common | sense is necessary" to show them the utter futility of their present course .-New York World.

Largely a Question of Freight.

The principal reason why the highly civilized and commercial nations have gradually abandoned silver and adopted the gold standard is that value for value silver is 30 times as heavy as gold. So that if the cheaper metal were used to settle balances in trading between two countries or between distant points of the same country it would cost 30 times more to transfer it than if payment was made in gold. The foolish idea that business men have conspired to discredit the white metal in order to increase the value of gold is merely a cheap money delusion. Merchants and bankers are interested in having the best possible material for use in measuring values and making exchanges, and the fact that in millions of transactions the handling of money the greater weight of silver meant a larger cost of transporting it was of itself a sufficient reason why gold should be preferred.

Left to themselves, men always choose the easiest known method of doing anything. Since it is far easier to use a substance having great value in small bulk than one 80 or 60 times heavier, it is only natural that, whenever it is possible to secure sufficient gold, that metal mans, who, disregarding party lines, should be used instead of silver. Wood is now generally used instead of steel for hieycle rims because it is lighter. Steelites who should claim that the wood conspirators had demonetized steel rims would be laughed at. Yet their leaders when he gave utterance to his arguments would be just as sound as

The People Who Buy Things.

There is one class of people in the United States which is specially interested in the agitation for free silver, with its openly avowed purpose of raising prices twice as high as they are now. This is the consuming class, composed of all the people who buy things. To them the most important question in regard to the currency is, "Will our this country, with few exceptions, is money buy few or many things? We emphasically for sound money, as it has now have an industrial and commercial system in which wages are paid and upon to pronounce in favor of the main- products bought and sold with a currency which rests on a gold standard and has a high purchasing power. If we were to adopt the silver standard, our money would buy only half the Greatest Swindle of the Century.

The free and unliimted coinage of silver is the greatest political swindle of the century, for it gives to the wealthy the power to double their wealth and leaves to the poor man nothing but silver dollars really worth only 50 cents each. - Bucyrns Journal.

FREE SILVER.

Would Not Remedy the Unequal Distribution of Wealth.

It is because of the belief that in some way free coinage would give the poorer classes some of the wealth now in the hands of the rich that the farmers and workers in some sections of the country have favored the 16 to 1 scheme.

The shallowness of the pretense that the silver standard would help the poor as against the rich can be seen by considering the results which its advocates claim would follow its adoption. They insist that by measuring values in dollars worth half of a gold dollar the value of all the wealth in the country would be exactly doubled. This is an error arising out of the silverite confusion of value with price. Prices would doubtless be doubled as compared with the 50 cent dollar, but the value of all kinds of goods would not be increased in the slightest degree. Does any farmer think that his implements or his furniif their nominal price was doubled?

But even if prices were doubled how would that help the people who are poor? The man who now has $1,000,000 worth of property would under free silver have $2,000,000 worth. This would benefit him 100 times as much, so far as prices are concerned, as the man with $10,000 and 1,000 times as much as the man with only $1,000. The men who now have nothing would under free coinage have exactly twice nothing. The gap between the poor man and the mil-lionaire would be just as great as it is now. The laborer, who has no goods to sell, would find that the prices of all his food and clothing were twice as high, while any increase of wages would come slowly if at all. In compelling the masses to pay higher prices for all they consume, while doubling the price of the property of the wealthy classes, free | their boxes. silver would make the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Free coinage as a scheme for enriching the owners of a few. silver mines and getting offices for calamity howling politicians may be a great success. As a means of abolishing the differences between the poor and the wealthy classes it is a monumental fraud.

A Specimen Argument.

The following is one of Judge Crisp's favorite illustrations of the horrors of the gold standard:

'Suppose that you had been owing a debt of $100 for five years. You could have satisfied that debt five years ago with two bales of cotton. Today it will require three bales of cotton to cancel the same debt. The reason is the supply of money has been reduced and the demand has correspondingly increased."

"There are several fallacies in this statement," says the Atlanta Journal. "In the first place the supply of money has not been reduced within the last five years, either in bulk or per capita.

"But if Judge Crisp's argument is good there must have been an immense increase in the currency last year, for while it would have required nearly four bales of cotton to pay a debt of $100 in 1894, two bales and a quarter would have paid it in 1895.

"If Judge Crisp is ignorant on the subject he is discussing, he should inform himself before he poses as a Democratic leader. If he knows more than his speeches indicate, he should not try to deceive the people.

"When a politician, after study and thought, changes from being a free coinage to a sound money advocate, he is a turncoat and a traitor, but when, to keep in the political swim, he changes from sound money to free silver coinage, 'God bless him! he is a statesman and a patriot,' say all the silverites."

The Magic of the Word "Free." It is difficult to understand how any considerable portion of the people can be so ignorant of the most vital question now before them as to believe that "free" coinage actually means that by some mysterious legerdemain the people are to get something for nothing. And yet it is undoubtedly true that a large number of people who are following the free silver ignis fatures do so because their imagination has been captivated by that magic word "free." The man, therefore, who expects to receive a dollar, whether of gold or silver or paper, must have some product of labor to give in exchange, and no financial system worthy of its own respect has ever plaimed anything else. Under free coinage not only must every dollar represent at least an equivalent amount of labor, but it will represent twice as much labor and purchase just half as much commodities as at present -Augusta (Ga.)

DESIGNING DOLLS

A Tiny Miss Who Has Made a Great Su oces In Drawing Paper Toys.

The hundreds of people who see their children playing happily with paper dolls daily do not realize what a field for the labors of talented persons the manufacture of these paper toys presents. One of the best known designers of paper dolls is Miss Marguerite Mc-Donald. She is now a young miss of 16, but she was only 13 years old when her dolls, whose designing had been her amasement and play, was brought to the attention of one of the largest art publishing firms of the country. The firm was so pleased with the artistic quality and original character of Miss Marguerite's work that an offer was promptly made to her for it, and the little girl found that her play had become profitable. Since the first of her dolls became popular, her pretty handiwork has been much added to, until her doll family is large and distinguished Marguerite is the daughter of a naval officer, and her home is in Washington, although she was born in New York. New Yorkers have a still further claim upon her from the fact that her mother's family live there, too, and Dr. Rogers, long the pastor of the church at the cor-

Marguerite's mother says that when the young artist was a small child, a mere baby, indeed, she saw a pencil one day and took hold of it at once as if she knew how to use it. This fact was so striking, as well as unusual, that her mother noticed and remembered it, and felt sure her little daughter would show it around a time or two and pulled it older. This she did very soon, and her painted dollies were the delight of all the children of the neighborhood long before they became an article of sale in the shops. They were comical enough at first, though from the very start her originality of design showed itself.

Jeffers of Annapolis received her commission, filed her bond and entered upon the duties of the office, to which she was appointed by Governor Lowndes and confirmed by the senate just before the adjournment of the general assembly. She is the daughter of a came a shrill call: "Please, missus, I'se late gallant officer of high rank in the navy, a lady of much personal popularity, and will doubtless make as excellent a state librarian as those of Kentucky, Michigan and other states in which this office has come to be regard- replied: "Oh, well, write me a posted as one which women are peculiarly adapted to fill."

Passes Swinging From a Chain. The fashionable girl these days lets her purse swing from a chain which she wears about her neck.

The chain must be very fine and the purse of silver or gold mesh with a gate top. This idea is more for novelty than convenience, for a purse dangling from one's waist is apt to be a trifle annoying. But it is the fashion, and so the maids tuck part of the purse within the belt, as if it were a watch.

Many of these weven gold or mesh purses are wonderfully beautiful. They not only have the gold ball top studded with jewels, but a tiny gem or two glistens among the woven gold threads of the purse itself .- New York Mer-

JUGGLERY MADE EASY.

A Trick That Magicians Perform Can Be Done by Any Bright Boy.

Many of you no doubt are familiar with the juggler's trick of baking a cake in a silk hat, but not with the way in which it is done. We are going to describe the process so simply that it may be employed in the parlor as well as on the stage.

To prepare for the trick get three eggs, and having blown the contents from two of them, close the little apertures with white wax. Place the three eggs upon a plate, ready for use when wanted, and in the left hand side of your waistcoat put a flat cake, 4 or 5 than $300,000,000 per year. Of this inches in diameter.

Having made these preparations, appear before the spectators, put the plate with the three eggs on it on a table and borrow a silk hat. After secretly transferring the cake from your waistcoat to the hat, put the hat on the table and break one of the blown eggs on the edge of the plate and pretend that you empty | ing thus been proved to have no existits contents into the hat.

To add to the illusion then drop the perfect egg upon the plate and let the spectators see its contents pour out. That will help to make them believe that the other two are real. Then break the remaining blown egg and pretend to it is no longer a question for discussion. empty its contents into the hat, after which you have only to pass the hat several times over the flame of a candle to complete the trick, taking care, of course, that you do not bring it near enough to the flame to injure it. Johnny's Postscript.

Bessie Chandler, the writer of stories and verses for children, is a daughter At one time in their family they had a and spent his spare time idling about the rooms where the ladies sat. They would puzzle their wits to keep the boy at work. One day Mrs. Chandler was busy and sent Johnny into the next room. "You may take your slate and pencil," she said, "and write me a letter." The boy obeyed. By and by there got it wroted. It says: 'Dear Missus-Kin I go down to the tennis court and see them play tennis? Respectfully yours, Johnny.'" Mrs. Chandler was not ready to admit him as yet, so she script." Again a silence, so prolonged that she went into the room to investigate. There was no boy there. GOVERNOR ALTGELD'S ERRORS.

Fried to Bolster Up the Silver Cause With Unfounded Assumptions.

Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois recently delivered at the Auditorium in Chicago a long and carefully prepared address, in which he endeavored to bolster up the failing silver cause with bold assertions and unfounded assumptions. Starting out with the statement that the civilized world is suffering from bankruptcy, ruin and misery, he claimed that the one cause of this state of affairs is "the great reduction in the volume of money in the world incident to destroying silver as a money metal.' The rest of his two hours' speech was devoted to an attempt to show that free silver would be a sufficient remedy for all business and industrial ills. There is only one objection to the as sertion that the volume of money in the world has been greatly reduced by destroying silver as a money metal. It is not true, and Governor Altgeld is very ignorant of the question on which he assumes to teach the people of Illinois if he does not know that it is not true. The official figures show that not only has the actual value of money greatly increased during the past 25 years, but the per capita circulation also has increased. England, France, Germany, Austria and Russia, the leading commercial nations of Europe, have added over $800,000,000 to their stock of money during that period. The United States has increased its volume of specie and bullion by over $1,000,000,000 in the same time. Even the silver using countries of Asia and South America, as well as Mexico, have now far more money than in 1873. The world's production of gold and silver is now more great amount it is estimated that less than one half is used in the arts, so that over $150,000,000 is available for money. Of this at least $100,000,000 is gold, of which the natural increase in ten years alone will be $1,000,000,000.

The alleged evil which Governor Altgeld wishes to cure by free coinage havence, it follows that his remedy is equally imaginary. The grounds on which he argues for the silver standard are only echoes of "Coin's Financial School," which is even outdone in some respects. Thus he says, "For some years during and after the war we were on a paper basis, and our paper dollar was worth only 40 cents in gold, but our people prospered." If this prosperity was the result of cheap paper money, why does not Governor Altgeld advocate a return to flat 40 cent or no cent paper dollars, instead of stopping half way with 51 cent silver dollars?

In closing his address Governor Altgeld asserted that the question of free coinage meant an issue between the gold other error of fact. Free silver at 16 to thinks may be the best ratio, would not

This has been proved so often that No reasonable man believes that gold would be used as money if silver worth 50 cents were made legal tender for a dollar, for it is certain that free coinage would drive gold out of circulation and NORTH OR WEST. put the country on the silver basis. The issue is therefore between silver monometallism and the gold standard. No believer in an honest dollar should be deceived by the false pretense of "bimetallism."-Whidden Graham.

Scaring Capital Away.

"Any southern state which has begun to attract outside capital on a large scale or hopes to do so in the near future will make a deplorable blunder if it goes on record as favoring the free coinage of silver," says the Baltimore News (Dem.). "In no other way can these states so promptly and effectively THROUGH TICKETS SOLD.

joining the ranks of those who are attempting to debase the currency. Any community that rushes frantically to the support of schemes for scaling down debt simply because they do scale down debts is bound to suffer for it. How much Virginia has suffered from the consequences of following Mahone into the ditch of repudiation it is impossible to estimate.

Asked to Go Backward. Suppose some party should arise at-tributing the hard times among the farmers to the use of seeders and self binders and thrashing machines and attempt to convince them that to be prosperous they must "demonetize" all these implements and again scatter seed with their hands from a bag slung over their shoulders, go back to the cradle or, better, to the sickle in harvesting and the flail in thrashing. Would not the farmer of today say that the world moves forward, not backward; that it is constantly striving to lighten, not to increase manual labor? Suppose some other party should come into existence that would bemoan the hard times, declare that the use of railways is the sole cause and demand their "demonetization" and a return to the freight wagon.

And yet it is precisely such a retrograde movement as any of these supposed cases would be that our silver friends are proposing. But no proposition to go backward, to pick up discarded tools, to add to the burdens of exchange will ever be accepted by the mass of men. -St. Paul Globe.

A PREACHER AND HIS GUN.-While Rev. G. C. Smith was preaching at Rowland Sunday night Craig Camdem came in and acted in such a way as not to meet with the approval of the members and on the following day Mr. Ben Martin swore out a writ charging him with disturbing religious worship. Craig evidently thought the pastor had it done and while in Goodrich's store a few night's ago he kicked over the chair Rev. Smith was sitting in and the reverend gentleman was spilled on the floor. The latter got up as mad as a hornet and started after Camden with a drawn knife but failed to catch him. This was a little more than the preacher could stand and shouldering a shot gun he came to town and swore out a writ for assault against tempted suicide at Liberty Sunday by the young man. The unusual sight of a shooting himself. The ball entered the preacher carrying a shot gun attracted right temple and passing through the considerable attention, but when asked why he carried it he was sufficiently collected to say that he was merely going squirrel hunting. Camden was evidentbad health for a long time and that has tunate, no donbt, that he did not cross his path.
